

Wheelkathon is an innovation marathon for modern inventors, innovators, designers and those, who desire to contribute with their ideas to change the situation of the people with physical disabilities.

The name “Wheelkathon” combines the word “Wheelchair” with “Hackaton”, which results in an event that provides the opportunity for programmers, but not only, to let their imagination run free and show off their skills. In our Leżę i Pracuję team we’ve been dreaming about connecting these two worlds together. It’s one of a kind event in Poland!

Wheelkathon aims in connecting creative minds of the inventors together with the needs that the people with physical disabilities have. We invite investors who by exchanging their knowledge and experience, can create new technologies and solutions that will, in innovative ways, ease the work, social integration and even improve the standard of living for the people with physical disabilities. We also focus on networking. We want to build up an open, creative collective, in which we’d connect the inventors with the business and startup environments, so that the new ideas will be taken care of even after the Wheelkathon is over.

So far we have organized two editions of Wheelkathon.
